Welcome!

Thank you millions, you just made a few people very happy!

You must be wondering who the 'few' people are. First, that would be our local team who will be working closely with you.

The other 'few' would be our stand-by teams in our destinations.

We are all thrilled that you've entered our travel space!

We hope the vacations summary will motivate you to take the leap to join us on a wonderful journey of discovery, exploration and immersion in 2027.

Our '14 & 18 day vacations for 2027 will include:

Germany, Hungary, Slovakia, Switzerland, as well as the Western Cape South Africa Winelands, West Coast, and the Garden Route. Please note that we haven't included the South African summaries in this document, but we'll let you know when they become available.

About Us & The Luxury Cultural Travelers We Serve

So what is "Cultural Travel"? Wikipedia explains it as: "travel that emphasizes experiencing life within a foreign culture, rather than from the outside as a "temporary visitor".

We translate Wikipedia's concept into our own understanding of what it means to us:

To find a rare gem, you have to dig deep.

To discover the pulse of a destination, you have to step outside your comfort zone.

To explore the pulse of a destination, you have to be willing to interact with the locals and actively pursue creative activities.

The experience: a whole new outlook on life.

The gem: invaluable knowledge gained that sets you on a path of an enlightened, spiritually-rich life.

Let Us Expand ... Traditional Luxury Traveler vs. Our Cultural Traveler

Traditional luxury travel dictates that it is all about excesses: a posh room with a stunning view, soaking up the sun on a private island or yacht, high-end dining, invitation-only activities and entertainment, and everything else regarded as being "elitist".

Our Luxury Travelers are none of the above. They want deeper insight into the destinations and their inhabitants, combined with some luxury treatment for their comfort. As for the "luxury" part, they prefer simplicity.

We understand that this means we have to ensure that all their travel details are taken care of, and that they are comfortable throughout the journey. So that they can focus on their surroundings and experience the destination as it is.

They value the environment, people, and can relate well to those in unfortunate circumstances. Most important of all, they appreciate life.

They are adventurous, want to expand their horizons, gain better insight into their destinations' character, and want to learn more about the inhabitants. They have a thirst for knowledge and want to keep up with what really affects the world around them.

To achieve their travel goals, they prefer a deeply "cultural" experience above that of a traditional luxury vacation.

Who Are Our Clients?

Our clients are intelligent, highly educated, open-minded and are not necessarily from an HNW (High Net Worth) or "family wealth" background. Our clients are from a background of "self-made" financial, business and career success. Making them firmly grounded in the realities of life.

They value the simple things in life but also feel that they deserve to spoil themselves by taking a break from the rat-race. Through a well-deserved vacation that although simple, it must also cater to their need to have a relaxing time away from home.

They prefer to travel in small, intimate groups which may or may not include relatives or even close friends.

They are open to the idea of traveling with a group of like-minded travelers who share their passion for digging deep into the genuine character of the destination and uncovering the secrets that only the locals know about.

Locals who can take them on a journey of awesome story-telling that will transport them to a time of ancient empires and larger-than-life heroes.

And regale them with stories about fantastic events that are not mentioned in any history books.

They especially value weekends so that they can breathe ... after an exciting week of exploration, discovering, and embracing the local culture.

This is their time out to do whatever their hearts desire and wherever their instincts take them.

Whether they want to relax and reminisce with their group, explore on their own, recuperate, or take advantage of our exciting recommendations.

Our Personalized, Stimulating Itineraries

We design bespoke itineraries that speak to each individual differently. We understand that although our groups desire to explore a destination's culture, it is not their only goal. This is because they have unique characters and other interests that differ from person to person.

We therefore, take a holistic approach to learn more about their interests which gives us a snapshot of each individual's character. This helps us to design itineraries with diverse activities so that each person in the group enjoy the vacation.

Our groups are accompanied by highly experienced tour leaders throughout the tour. A person whom we know can be trusted to ensure that all our groups' personal needs are seen to, can respond to emergency situations when it is called for, and understand that the group he or she is leading is reliant on their expertise as tour managers.

We ensure that our tour leaders have the relevant training, qualifications and experience to lead groups, apply emergency services, and have the ability to effectively communicate with our clients.

We choose highly regarded destination management organizations and expert local tour guides who are well-trained to work with small groups of luxury cultural travelers.

They have the know-how and expertise to help our groups discover immersive activities that allows them to personally connect with the locals, explore the depths of a destination, and create opportunities that allow our groups to share precious memories with their fellow travelers.

They have extensive knowledge about the regions to enable them to serve our groups in a responsible manner to keep them safe.
